MISSIONARY'S DEATH DRAWS U. S. ACTION

American Embassy Opens Investigation in Death of Minnesota Man in Chinese Province—Reported Driven From Home by Japs While Ill.

Peiping, Nov. 14. (AP)—Investigation of the death of Karl Benhardt Olsen, American missionary of Gully, Minn., was ordered by the United States Embassy Saturday on the basis of reports he had been driven from his home by Japanese troops while ill with smallpox.

Representatives of the Embassy were dispatched into North China to inquire into Olsen's death, to determine the whereabouts of two other American missionaries, and to gather first hand information on reports of fighting in Suiyuan Province.

Olsen died at Kaigan early Saturday. Reports received at the Embassy here declared his death followed evicting by Japanese troops from his home 80 miles northwest of Kaigan. Japanese military circles here denied knowledge of the report and at the same time called it "patently absurd."

The embassy said it was informed Japanese military authorities northwest of Kaigan had desired for several weeks the removal of Olsen's residence, refusing to permit the missionary to conduct services for his mongol converts, an embassy spokesman declared.

Shortly afterward, Olsen was taken ill with smallpox. While he was lying ill within his home, next door to the confiscated chapel, Japanese officials demanded the house for military purposes, the embassy report asserted.

They forced him, despite his illness, his wife and three children to vacate the residence, the spokesman said he was informed.

Evicted, the refugee family managed to reach Kaigan where Olsen was reported to have died as a result of hardship and lack of medical attention.

MERGER OF U. S. NAVY AND WAR DEPARTMENTS TALKED

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—Agitation for a merger of the War and Navy departments came to the surface again Saturday as a by-product of current studies looking toward a possible sweeping reorganization of the government.

Congressional reports at work on the surveys said requests had been received for reconsideration of bills to create a department of National defense. A number of such bills are lying dormant in committee files.

However, Senate and House committees virtually were marking time on all reorganization problems pending receipt of reports from the Brookings Institute, which was engaged to do the fact-finding. The reorganization committee of the Senate is headed by Senators Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, while Representative Buchanan, Democrat, Texas, heads the House committee.

A third committee, appointed by President Roosevelt, also is studying the reorganization question and will report to Congress as well as to the chief executive.

CANNING MAY HURT FRESH FRUIT INDUSTRY, BUREAU SAYS

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—A danger that grapefruit canning ultimately might interfere with the fresh fruit industry was reported today by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Although growers have seen canning as a means of relieving their surplus production, the Bureau said, "there is some question as to how far canning can go before it has the further effect of reducing the demand for the fresh fruit."

Where the canned product comes in direct competition with fresh fruit, it is said, the canning plant, diverting some of the plant to the industry, it added, only to the extent that it "simply lengthens the marketing season."

WORK ON NEW SCHOOL AT CROWELL STARTS

Crowell, Nov. 14. (AP)—Work on the foundation of a new grammar school building began Friday with 100 men, two shifts of 50 each, employed in constructing the new building and raising the old one. Twenty-five government laborers will be employed daily on the construction of the foundation and the same number will continue to work on tearing down the old building.

Orders to start the new project, which includes the laying of the foundation, installing the plumbing and building the walls as well as the windows, were received officially Wednesday morning.

The building will contain 20 rooms. The one-story, fire-proof structure is to be modern in every respect and more than meets State requirements regarding lighting and heating facilities. A large study hall will be included in the arrangement of the new grammar school.

The new building is to be located east of the high school building facing south.

The materials and common labor for the building are being furnished by the government building agency and the skilled labor is furnished by the Crowell Independent School District.

A bond issue of $12,000 was passed recently by tax payers of the district to take care of the expenses of the skilled labor and equipment.

The project which called for the raising of the old grammar school building was begun about the middle of September and is rapidly nearing completion. Only part of the walls and the basement are left to be torn down by the crews on the project. Other WPA laborers are salvaging much of the materials used in the old building for use in the new structure.

GRUESOME PACKAGE IS TRACED BY DETECTIVES

San Francisco, Nov. 14. (AP)—Postal authorities and police pressed their search Saturday for the person who mailed a baby boy's body to a non-existent address.

Mystery surrounded the gruesome discovery, made Friday in the dead letter office where the heavily-wrapped cardboard box had been held since Wednesday.

A microscopic examination disclosed a Chicago cancellation mark on the 81 cents in postage. A possible clue to the origin was seen in the figures "1431" printed in the center of the cancellation. Postal inspectors said they might be a Chicago sub-station postmark. It was first thought the package was mailed in Oakland, Calif.

Reds Told "To Wipe Out" Rebels After Disastrous Raid on Madrid

BOMBERS DUMP DEATH ON BIG CROWD IN CITY

Death Toll Placed at 53 With 150 Wounded After Attack During Mass Meeting for Defense of Capital—Explosions Rock U. S. Embassy.

Madrid, Nov. 14. (AP)—Insurgent bombers, unleashing high explosives into a thronged Madrid plaza, killed an estimated 53 persons and wounded 150 others Saturday.

This estimate of the dead was announced at 4 p. m. by relief workers. The aerial attackers dropped eight explosive missiles, five of which fell into a throng on the Glorieta Atocha Plaza where a defense mass meeting was being held.

Stung to fury by the raid, Madrid's defense commander ordered his armies to "wipe out 50,000 of the enemy."

"Before you are rebel armies, about 50,000 strong," proclaimed Gen. Jose Miaja, "Smash through them! Wipe them out!"

He ordered a relentless drive on the besiegers of Madrid a few hours after the air raid, one of the most disastrous of the siege of the city. The force of the explosions was felt in the United States Embassy where more than 50 American nationals have taken refuge from the assaults on Madrid.

The crowded plaza was turned into a scene of horrors by the blast which shook the capital to the foundations. The assembly had been called to hear plans for the defense of Madrid. The power of the bombs was demonstrated by the fact one blew a large hole through the roof of a subway which had been considered a bomb-proof shelter.

Two huge stone columns in front of the Ministry of Public Works were toppled by the blast. Water mains, shattered by the explosions, sent streams high into the air.

The area was roped off while trucks rushed the injured to hospitals.

Schools qualifying for salary aid were Five-In-One, South Lockett, Northside, Odell, Farmers Valley, Elliott and Plainview. Hinds and Crescent Cove failed to qualify because enrollment in the schools did not meet the minimum requirement of 65 per cent of the total shown in census figures for the two districts.

Final action on Mr. Rasco's recommendations will be made by the State Board of Education.

FARMERS VIEW NEW MACHINE FOR DAMMING FURROWS

Enthusiasm over the possibilities of a furrow-damming machine invented by three Oklahoma men expressed by more than 200 farmers and business men of this section was attended a demonstration of the machine Friday on the Judd farm southeast of Vernon.

The all-day event was conducted by J. W. Kennedy, W. P. Ramsey and M. W. Lee, inventors. A tractor with two-row tillage equipment was used. The operation of the machine attached to the rear of the tractor was convincing in that the machine proved a major step toward the solution of the water and soil conservation problem.

The machine gathered dirt and deposited it in substantial dams every 10 feet. The inventors demonstrated adjustments making it possible to build dams six to 12 feet apart and three to 12 inches high.

Simplicity of construction, light weight, ease of operation, and durability are among the features. Weighing about 230 pounds, it has only four moving parts and can be attached to tractor or horse-drawn litters within a few minutes.

The inventors were prompted to develop their machine upon the suggestion of an Oklahoma farmer, W. E. Williams.

They tackled the machine in Mr. Ramsey's garage and problem shop at Oklahoma last July. After several weeks of patient effort, including several sleepless nights, the men completed the device they believed would answer the need of any farmer for water and conservation equipment. A patent on it was received recently.

The two-row dammer consists of two damming blades on each end of a single shaft, the "paddle-wheel" arrangement remains stationary until tripped by a trigger release with each revolution of the blade or tractor wheel. With the latter shaft making a half revolution to every full revolution of the tractor or lister wheel, the wear on moving parts is slight.

When in a vertical position as it is pulled down the furrow, the blade gathers the siltful dirt to make a dam capable of holding a furrow full of water. The action is automatic and does not delay ordinary listing. When tripped, one blade lifts to deposit the dirt it has gathered as the other drops into position to start another dam.

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 14. (AP)—Concerned over the loss of school time occasioned by the current outbreak of infantile paralysis, the Tulsa School Board at a special meeting Friday decided schools will not close for two weeks over the Christmas holidays.

The usual two-day vacation at Easter also was cancelled.

It was agreed, however, that school would not be held Saturdays nor after the regular school year ends, May 28.

WORKERS SEEK EARLY ACTION TO END STRIKE

Leader of Longshoremen Demands Quick Settlement—East and Gulf Coast Employees May Be Called To Help Walkout.

San Francisco, Nov. 14. (AP)—Harry Bridges, militant longshoremen's leader, declared Saturday striking marine workers would take no action against employers unless the maritime strike is settled soon.

Business men, who said the dispute is costing West Coast firms $7,000,000 daily, demanded quick peace.

Bridges, who led the longshoremen's walkout two years ago, declared his union and others would "do something" unless deadlocked peace negotiations could be resumed "within the next three or four days."

"We understand," he told San Francisco Labor Council delegates, "that West Coast ship owners are prepared to hold out for some time, perhaps two or three months. If the ship's labor dependent on subsidies don't do something pretty soon, we are going to do something. . . . we are going to have to protect ourselves."

"When we are convinced there is no further use of making time, and when it becomes necessary to move, we are going to call on the East and Gulf Coast workers to help."

Bridges' statement found a lone Government official, Assistant Labor Secretary Edward F. McGrady, working untiringly to bring about resumption of negotiations, while peace came in a strike of local warehousemen, whose walkout was not connected with the maritime dispute.

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—Elmer J. Maloy and George A. Patterson, employee representatives of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Company, Saturday asked President Roosevelt to recommend to the next Congress adoption of legislation outlawing coercion of workers by employers and forbidding company financed unions.

Friday they were successful in obtaining from Secretary Perkins an opinion that the company's employee representatives do not have authority to sign a binding wage agreement.

The company has offered a 10 per cent increase in wages contingent upon signing a year's agreement—starting Monday—which provides that wages shall be adjusted upward and downward with fluctuations in the cost of living as computed by the Labor Department.

The first 100 numbers in past years were awarded individually to the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, other public officials, and in some instances, newspapermen. The demand became so heavy that several hundred applications sought the 100 special license numbers so reserved.

Several Germany's best waterways were placed under international commissions by part XII of the Treaty of Versailles, assuring foreign traffic equal rights with German shipping.

Saturday's denunciation, following by eight months Germany's "throwing off of Versailles shackles" by rearmament, the Rhineland, affects control of the Upper Rhine and Moselle, the Upper Danube, and Elbe and the Oder.

These have been controlled by commissions composed of representatives of the most interested nations, with Germans in the minority.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14. (AP)—The mystery of how beautiful Verna Garr Taylor was shot to death on a bluegrass countryside road deepened Friday night following intimations of counsel for Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, accused of murdering her, that the body may be exhumed for evidence.

A week ago Friday night the body of the socially prominent, 40-year-old widow was found in a roadside ditch several miles from La Grange, Ky., her home. She had been shot through the heart. The 45 calibre revolver of Gen. Denhardt, her escort on an all-day automobile trip, lay nearby.

The inquest called by Coroner D. L. Ricketts at New Castle Thursday to establish the manner of her death abruptly ended at the outset with the arrest of Gen. Denhardt on a murder warrant sworn to by Dr. E. S. EFFORT MADE TO PREVENT A. F. L. SPLIT

Roosevelt's Coordinator for Industrial Cooperation Asks Discussion To Prevent Rift at Tampa Convention—Resolution Seeks Lewis Ouster.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 14. (AP)—George L. Berry, President of the American Federation of Labor, Saturday proposed arbitration to prevent the threatened split in the American Federation of Labor.

Berry also president of the P. H. Pressman's Union and told reporters labor always had insisted upon arbitration in its scraps with employers and now should use it in its own internal feuds.

Berry dropped this proposal into a pre-convention atmosphere charged with determination of craft union leaders to oust from the Federation John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his 10 rebel unions.

The Federation's metal trades department instructed John P. Frey, its president, to introduce a resolution at the convention, starting Monday, calling for expulsion of the rebels.

William Green, federation president, in two speeches roared his disapproval of Lewis' tactics, predicted the rebellion would collapse and said that when the unorganized were brought into the job, the A. F. of L. would do the job.

LEWIS' FACTION WELCOMES VICTORY ON TWO FRONTS

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—Followers of John L. Lewis rejoiced Saturday in the results of two preliminary skirmishes against an employees' representation plan in the agricultural, implement industry and against the proposed flexible pay scale in steel.

On complaint of the United Automobile Workers, a member of the Lewis camp of industrial unionists, the National Labor Relations Board moved to demolish the "Harvester Industrial Council Plan" in operation at the Ford Wayne, Ind., plant of the International Harvester Company.

The board held the workers' representation plan was a "creature" of the company, that the company dominated it and that it gave workers only a "shadow" of collective bargaining.

GIRL, 5, SLAIN AT CHICAGO

SEARCH PUSHED FOR MAN WANTED IN FIENDISH ATTACK AT SCHOOL

Chicago, Nov. 14. (AP)—Squads of policemen pressed a city-wide search Saturday for a ruthless attacker who left five-year-old Antoinette Tiritilli with her throat cut and bleeding to death in a school yard where she resisted his advances.

A hasty transfusion of blood from her mother proved futile and the little girl died in a hospital Friday night.

Antoinette, almost incoherent from fright and pain, was unable in a short period of consciousness to describe the slayer, except that he was white.

"I was playing in the school yard when he came up and grabbed my hand and offered to get me some candy," she sobbed.

"I was afraid and tried to get away, but he pulled me around to the back of the school. He swore at me and took out a knife. I screamed and he hit me across the neck with the knife and ran away and left me on the ground."

The child staggered from the alley, moaning, and was noticed by James Torsillo, 17, and his cousin, Santos Callenno, 17. They carried her to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tiritilli.

Antoinette's mother, Anna, 38, stopped a truck and the driver raced with the dying girl and her mother to the hospital.

Tiritilli, employed by the WPA as a charity worker, and his wife have two other daughters, eight and two years old.

In the past five years the Oklaunion volleyball team coached by Mrs. Kinard have won the county championships each year and have made good records in the district tournaments of the Interscholastic League of Texas.

Philadelphia, Nov. 13. (AP)—A new process for recovering potash—a vital constituent of explosives and fertilizers—from domestic resources abundant in Texas and New Mexico was reported Friday to the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

In a group paper four chemists described the method as "flash evaporation" of a mixture of potash halophosphate, a mineral, occurs in great quantities in the Southwest. The authors were Joseph P. Creagh of South Charleston, W. Va., Joseph H. Koffelt and James E. Withrow of Ohio State University, and A. C. Feldner of the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

The work they declared, constituted a further step toward the dependence of the United States on its own natural resources should other countries of the world continue their trend toward economic nationalism.

The opposite course, it was pointed out, is the tendency toward freer world trade as embodied in the reciprocal tariff agreements now being promoted by the United States to encourage mutual intercourse between nations.

During the World War and before the United States obtained its potash from foreign sources, Creagh and his co-authors said.

Other engineers added that another process had recently been devised by the Bureau of Mines for producing manganese, a metal vitally necessary in producing modern alloy steel, from low-grade manganese deposits in Western States. Manganese formerly was imported from foreign countries, particularly Russia.

Going Forward WITH OUR FARMER FRIENDS

The farm situation in America is undergoing a mighty change. Our farms produce more food than our people can eat and other nations are buying less of us.

Finding new industrial uses for our farm products is one answer to the problem. Controlled production, diversification, and soil conservation, give other answers. A new future is in the making for the farmer.

This bank is taking an active interest in agricultural progress. We are working in every possible way to promote greater prosperity for the farmers of this section. Let us cooperate with you.

BACTERIA ARE DANGEROUS AS IN WINTER AS IN SUMMER ...KEEP YOUR FOOD BELOW 50°!

•If you could see food under a microscope you would know why any refrigerator that cannot maintain temperatures below 50° is dangerous. For above 50° bacteria multiply by the millions—on meat, on leftovers, in milk. They endanger health, lower resistance to disease and waste your food money. And don't be fooled by winter weather. Outside temperatures are varying and uncertain—but it's always summer in your kitchen. If the temperature where your food is kept is not in the Safety Zone—below 50°—all the time, there's danger.

SAFETY—Below 50° bacterial growth is effectively retarded.

DANGER—Above 50° bacteria multiply rapidly, causing foods to spoil.

Returning to the League of Nations.

An interesting development of recent months shows that many of the responsible leaders in European nations are beginning to realize that the League of Nations, imperfect though it is, offers the best means of preserving the peace of the world. Following the failure of sanctions to prevent invasion of Ethiopia by Italy many observers concluded that the League as a political force was definitely dead. The Italy-Ethiopia failure followed a number of less striking defeats for League prestige, and there can be no question that most convincing evidence was on the side of those who thought the League was dead.

But when statesmen began to devise means of replacing the League with other machinery they suddenly found themselves confronted with insurmountable obstacles. When Germany, for example, proposed an agreement between the nations of Western Europe for the preservation of the peace of that section of the world it was easy to see that she was really bargaining for a free hand in the Balkans and with reference to Poland. In reality this proposal was to hobble England and France while German ambitions to the Southeast and East were satisfied. Similar conditions surrounded other proposals, such as Italy's suggestion for a non-aggression agreement among the Mediterranean powers. Belgium recently withdrew from her alliance with France for the simple reason that without League protection she would be bound to support France in any dispute regardless of its nature or with whom it might be provoked.

Out of the wreckage of these experiences informed observers of the European situation report a more tolerant attitude toward the League of Nations and the possibility that it might be revived and greatly strengthened during the next year. Even Germany and Italy are reported to be less hostile. Recent increases in military power and both France and Great Britain have had a sobering effect on Hitler and Mussolini. Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Minister, recently expressed the opinion that a revived and strengthened League is the only hope for peace, and he has assurance that support will be forthcoming from unexpected quarters during the next twelve months. Perhaps after all the dream of Woodrow Wilson in 1918 was not so fantastic as its critics declared.

Installment Buying.

Installment buying was not responsible for the 1929 crash, but has in reality constituted the country's most potent non-political force for recovery. That is the finding of a survey conducted by the noted economist, Isaac F. Marcouson, and presented in the American Magazine.

In his article the author declares that installment buying is made possible by the 99 per cent honesty of the American people. He finds that 99 out of every 100 buyers pays in full. His statement that time payments mortgaged the future and was responsible for the stock market crash in 1929 is interesting.

He carries out the statement in showing that the extended credit plan accounts for more than $10,000,000 in retail sales daily. A total of $4,000,000,000 was required in financing installment purchases last

HUNTERS PLAN BIG SEASON

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS MAY ATTRACT 400,000 TEXAS NIMRODS

Austin, Nov. 14. (AP)—Nearly half a millions Texas wild game hunters, greatly outnumbering other sportsmen interested in the same thing at the same time, will take the field with the opening of deer and turkey seasons, Nov. 15.

Will Tucker, secretary of the State Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, estimates more than 400,000 hunters and trappers will march over hill and dale this Fall in what promises to be the best season in a number of years.

The commission's reports show turkey unusually plentiful and in excellent condition. Deer, while not exceptionally numerous, also have benefited from fine range conditions brought about by timely rainfall.

Duck and geese hunters, who swing into action Thanksgiving and have until Christmas Day to bag their limits also should not be disappointed since waterfowl have been arriving in this state unusually early and in great numbers.

While reporting hunting conditions unusually good, Tucker in the same breath issued a warning to nimrods to acquaint themselves with all rules and regulations pertaining to the particular game they are seeking, not only to avoid severe penalties but in the interests of conservation.

Deer and turkey seasons close Dec. 31 and west of the Pecos, black tail hounds may be shot only from Nov. 15 to Dec. 1. Quail season runs Dec. 1 to Jan. 15. Fur trappers will be busy during December and January.

Exceptions to these laws apply in certain counties. The capital building will be practically deserted Nov. 16. Hunting enthusiasts include Claude D. Teer, chairman of the State Board of Commissioners; John H. Sharp and Richard Critz of the Supreme Court, and Rep. Harry N. Graves of Georgetown, who will form a group invading the game-rich Kerr County woodlands.

A. E. Wood, former game commissioner; George H. Shepard, state controller, and A. F. Martin, state auditor, will be out early to bag their limits. State Senators who usually gather in Austin and proceed to the Hill County in a band, include Will D. Pace of Tyler, John S. Redditt of Lufkin, Allan Shivers of Port Arthur, and Wilborne B. Collier of Eastland.

INFANTRY MULE MOURNED BY NEW YORK REGIMENT

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Nov. 14. (AP)—The men of the 28th Infantry mourned a mule Saturday but, they hasten to assure you, he wasn't an ordinary mule.

No man in the regiment recalls when he came. He survived a war, a bandit hunting trip, an order to kill all old mules—but he couldn't beat old age.

Some of the regiment's oldest men say Whisky was with the 28th mule corps at Fort Snelling, Minn., in 1910. He was on the Mexican border and hauled a gun into Vera Cruz. He went to France with the regiment, sniffed the smoke of many battles.

Experts in muledom placed his age at 12, and that was why, when the order went out a year ago to destroy all old and surplus animals in the service, the 28th trembled for Whisky.

A unanimous protest won him an exemption, but Whisky was on his downgrade. He couldn't get on his feet, his teeth were gone, he moved feebly if he moved at all.

So Private Walter Meskal, the 28th's best shot, stroked Whisky's bullet-like head, scratched him behind the ears—and shot him this week.

Whisky sleeps in the shadow of the post hospital at Fort Niagara. The grave is unmarked, but the 28th intends to do something about that.

SERVICE FOR MEN WILL CLOSE REVIVAL IN CITY

Revival services at the Federated Presbyterian Church will close Sunday evening with a special service for men, wives, mothers, and children are urged to bring the men to this service as their honor guests. The evangelist, Dr. Manford George Gutzke, is to speak on the subject, "What Shall I Do Then With Jesus?"

On Friday evening Dr. Gutzke spoke on "The Value of the Soul," saying, "man has both body and soul. These two are distinct from each other and often different in their needs and desires. The superior value of the soul is implied in the classic question in the Gospel of Luke, 'What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?'"

Great strides have been made in the care of the body in matters of health, diet, protection, etc. And we recognize this as the mark of culture and civilization. But there is an appalling indifference throughout the public mind concerning the soul. Intelligent people who desire the very best for themselves and their children often show the most careless attitude regarding the welfare of the soul, influenced no doubt by the popular practice in doubt the Christian people need to consider very seriously whether their consideration of spiritual matters is worthy of their supreme importance in life.

Sunday evening Dr. Gutzke will speak on the subject "How to Make a Success of the Christian Life." Dr. T. M. Cunningham will sing as a solo, "I Was a Wandering Sheep." Services begin at 7:30 p. m.

NEW INCOME HIKES GIVEN

WAREHOUSEMEN ON WEST COAST JOIN IN WAGE BOOSTS IN NATION

Chicago, Nov. 14. (AP)—To a fresh flood of income for workmen in various parts of the Nation was added Saturday a wage boost of seven and a half cents an hour to warehousemen on the West Coast.

Their strike against San Francisco and Oakland grocers, wholesalers and retailers night with an agreement whereby their pay was raised from 62 1/2 cents to 70 cents an hour. The announcement came in the wake of dozens of other upward revisions in compensation of workers employed by firms representing a cross-cut of American business and industry.

The Packard Motor Car Company announced at Detroit Friday an increase of five cents an hour for 10,579 hourly wage employees and $10 a month for 511 salaried workers receiving less than $200 a month. The aggregate payroll increase, said President Alvan Macauley, would be $1,250,000 a year.

BRADDOCK-LOUIS FIGHT PLANS SHAPE RAPIDLY

New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—Despite the howls of outraged boxing authorities, it appeared likely Saturday that the proposed no-decision fight between Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock and Detroit's dusky Jos Louis would take place in Atlantic City Feb. 23 at a place in Atlantic City.

Even the possibility that the contracts would be signed Saturday, but that appeared less probable.

Herman (Mugsy) Taylor of Philadelphia, who first thought up the idea, said Friday he had secured the $100,000 demanded as "evidence of good faith" by Joe Gould, Braddock's manager, and that he hoped to clear away the remaining obstacles in a conference between Mike Jacobs, who represents Louis, and Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, knows that the neighborhood is buzzing with gossip over the sudden disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, whose engagement to Marcia has been announced.

Since the disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's business accounts has been discovered. Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia goes to the dramatic club try-outs and is given the leading part in the forthcoming play. DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia, is given a less important part.

Afterward Marcia, her friend, HELEN WADDELL, and several others stop at TONY STELLICI's restaurant. Four men enter and stage a holdup. Marcia's purse, containing a ring that was her mother's, is taken.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV
On the morning after the Stagecraft Guild tryouts and the Dog Wagon holdup, Marcia breakfasted as usual with her father. Both of these survivors of the Canfield line were healthy enough to be good-humored of mornings, and therefore talkative, but it was seldom that they had as much fuel for conversation as now.

Mr. Canfield, as a practical person, could offer Marcia little solace in the loss of her mother's ring. It was probable, he pointed out, that the handiwork would discard the worn setting and dispose of the ruby by methods which left little hope of recovery.

"Undoubtedly they're the same fellows who have been committing the series of holdups in this neighborhood," he said. "They don't take much in any one robbery, but they seem to cover themselves safely. Four men always commit the robbery, and they always use two stolen cars."

"You know, I begin to suspect that although the four themselves are strangers in Bobba Neck, they may have some local talent driving the cars and acting as look-outs. They always park just right for a getaway, and apparently they know the roads perfectly."

"I'll ride down to the train with you," Marcia, "and stop in at the police station afterward. Maybe, by some good chance, they'll have news for me."

Her father extolled about for a pleasant topic. "And what luck did you have at the tryout for the show?" he asked. "You didn't mention it when you came in and sat on the edge of my bed last night to tell me about the holdup, and you had me so excited that I forgot to ask."

"My word!" said Marcia. "You haven't been told the chief theatrical news of the day. I got the leading part, Dad!"

"Very fine, indeed," said her father. "Doubtless I am supposed to buy tickets?"

"And come prepared to applaud heartily," Marcia.

They rode to the station, Marcia in silence as she thought of her lost ring, her father in argument with the chauffeur over a coming prizefight.

"Well, here we part again," said Mr. Canfield to the car stopped. "I now entrain to earn a living for self and child."

"Be sure to bring home another million," said Marcia.

"O. K. So long."

"Goodbye!"
He crossed the platform to the train and the chauffeur put the car in motion, but Marcia stopped him. Helen Waddell was driving up at a furious speed. Her father leaped out of their car and ran madly, without a backward glance, toward the train; Helen, leaning on the steering wheel, watched him with the expression of one who sees the family dog careen canyons in the proud flower bed.

Marcia stepped out and walked over to Waddell's car.

"Good morning, my companion in last night's crime," she said. "Don't you know you'll burn out your bearings or a blood vessel or something, running around like that? The train doesn't leave for a couple of minutes, at least."

"Tell him!" retorted Helen, nodding in the direction her father had taken. "I know there's lots of time. Will he believe it? He won't! That man ruins breakfast and the tempers of the whole darn family daily because he perpetually thinks he's going to miss this train. The late Mr. Waddell! What if he did miss it?"

"Just the happy and tranquil life of a commuter's child," murmured Marcia, "out in the country, far from the big city's worry and rush—and crime problem, I might add with sarcasm."

"Wish I were going in for some of the worry and rush," said Helen musingly. "Going in to a job. Doing something. I'm bored to death."

"No program of good deeds in the village on this bright day?" Marcia asked.

"Oh, certainly! I'll go back home now, report to Mother that that man she married failed to miss the train again, and sit around until evening, when we'll draw lots to see who has to drive down and fetch him home."

"It can't be that meager."

"Well, not quite. I mustn't omit mention of the daily shopping. And me with an education! The family might have saved the price. They don't want me to work. I could bust loose, I suppose, and get a job anyway, but they'd take it so hard that I haven't the heart. Darn, but I was born into an old-fashioned family! Though you've heard my complaint before, haven't you?"

They watched the train depart. "But I must see you for a bit of a talk," said Helen, so suddenly and earnestly that Marcia was surprised.

"Why, certainly, Helen! Let's see—I want to call at the police station, and I ought to pick up my copy of the play script and get to work on my part. Why not come along and get yours? Then we can go back to my house and start our reading."

"It's an idea," said Helen. "Though calling at the police station can't do me much good. My only loss was a $5 bill. Try to name something harder to identify. I'm terribly sorry about your ring, Marcia. That was a real misfortune. . . . But send your chauffeur laddie home and come along with me: I'd have to park my car at home anyway before going along in yours."

Marcia dismissed the chauffeur and climbed in beside Helen. They stopped at the police station, but there was no news of the handiwork.

"Well," said Helen, "that has entered the car again, 'that has been that for the present. Before going after the copies of the play, let's run up to my house for another spot of coffee, and I'll see whether I can do any errands for Mother while we're out. By the way, where do we go for the scripts?"

"Mrs. Reid Henderson has them. She's going to direct, you know."

"Yes. Apropos nothing, but just to promote a spirit of girlish confidence, I'm glad it's to be Mrs. Reid Henderson instead of her sister-in-law, Harold Henderson's wife. And that prompts the further observation that it struck me last night that, on the whole, the cast they've chosen ought to get along pretty well together. Don't you think so? As people, I mean; not just as characters in the play."

"Yes," said Marcia, pondering an exception. "Yes, indeed."

"With exceptions, no doubt," continued Helen, "if you don't mind my reading your thoughts, which agree so thoroughly with my own."

Marcia laughed. "I admit that you've read my thoughts."

They arrived at the Waddell's home and settled before the fire in the living room to await coffee. Before Helen resumed the conversation.

"Mind if I speak out freely, man to man? Something I've got to tell you anyway."

"I don't mind at all," said Marcia.

"It's an item of information. I could hardly decide whether to tell you. But I've known you long enough and well enough to prefer to tell you myself—risking your reception of it—than to take a chance on your later in a garbled version. From someone, let's say, like Dorothy Osborn, who advertised her depth of sweet nature so well with her stage whisper remark at the Guild tryouts last night."

She watched for the effect of this.

"Yes, I heard it," Marcia said.

"I'll admit, further, that it was not at all pleasant."

"Naturally it wasn't. No one cares to be present when a person so lacking in breeding is putting on a demonstration. It's bad-mannered, and embarrassing to people who have been reared above it. If you don't mind, I'd like to say that I think you have been pretty splendid for all these several weeks. It's hard to speak like this, Marcia, but it goes along with what I've got to tell you."

"Thanks, Helen!"

"The item of information I spoke of came by telephone this morning. Long distance. Of course you remember my cousin, John Waddell, who has visited here several times. He lives in Chicago, you know. He called early this morning, and fortunately I answered. He had met Frank Kendrick often while visiting here, of course."

At the sound of the name Marcia seemed to bend, but Helen determinedly rushed on.

"John didn't know about Frank's—being on the missing list. But he knew something must be terribly wrong because yesterday noon he saw Frank in a Loop restaurant—working as a busboy!"

Grimly Helen kept her eyes from Marcia's stricken face. Grimly she refused to pause. The words tumbled out.

"John said Frank pretended not to know him. Said John was mistaken—his name was something else. But John, of course, knew he couldn't be wrong. So he telephoned me to ask what was the matter, and whether he should do anything. I told him I couldn't answer right off; I'd have to call or write later. And that's all."

That was all; Only a dreary renewal of the weeks-old confusion in her mind, Marcia realized. Only a resumption of torturing speculations, when one was trying to know him. Said John was mistaken—his name was something else. But John, of course, knew he couldn't be wrong. So he telephoned me to ask what was the matter, and whether he should do anything. I told him I couldn't answer right off; I'd have to call or write later. And that's all."

COYOTES WIN FROM TIGERS

CHILDRESS AND GRAHAM
PLAY 13-13 TIE AS
WICHITA WINS, 6-0

The Childress Bobcats came back in the final quarter of their football game with the Graham Steers Friday night to score seven points, tie the score at 13-13, and cling to the lead in the District 2-A race by a narrow margin. Meanwhile the Wichita Falls Coyotes moved back into the position of a strong contender for district honors by defeating Electra Tigers 6 to 0 at Electra.

Led by Garland Terrell and Lionel Cornish respectively, the Bobcats and Steers, played one of the greatest games ever seen on the Graham field. The Childress eleven took the lead with a touchdown by Barnett, center, on an intercepted pass in the second quarter. The Steers came back in the third quarter to take the lead, however, with Cornish taking a lateral from Ardis and scoring 13 yards for the score. The Steers then kicked off to Terrell who lateraled to Helms. Silvey, taking a lateral from Helms on the same play, fumbled and the Steers recovered on Bobcats' 29. After failing to gain on three plays, Cornish passed to Remington who ran five yards for the score. Bryant kicked the goal. In the final quarter Terrell scored in four smashes at the line from the 12-yard marker and Wright tied the game by booting the ball squarely between the uprights.

The Coyotes and the Tigers went scoreless in the first three quarters of their closely contested game as their respective stars, Hill and Jennings, lived up to the reputations earned already this season. In the fourth quarter Charlie Hill fumbled on the fourth down with a few yards to go for first down on the Tigers' one-yard stripe. Quickly recovering, however, he passed to Billy Thomas in the end zone for the lone score of the game.

HENRIETTA LOSES GAME TO NOCONA BY 66 TO 7

In class B football Friday night the Henrietta Bearcats scored the first touchdown of the season which has been made against the Nocona Indians in conference competition but were defeated 66 to 7 by the powerful Indians. More than 2,000 spectators saw the game.

Making six first downs to Bowie's four, a smaller but game Saint Jo eleven downed the invading Bowie team 7 to 6, Friday afternoon.

Floydada, fast backs found the going easy at Matador Friday afternoon and the Floydada eleven emerged on the long end of an 18 to 0 score.

The Iowa Park Hawks were hosts to the Rochester eleven Friday night, the invaders administering a 47 to 0 trouncing to the Hawks.

ALTUS PIRATES DEFEAT TECH FRESHMEN 25-7

Altus, Okla., Nov. 14.—The Altus Junior College Pirates continued to spread havoc among the Yearling and Junior College football teams of this section Friday night as they administered a 25 to 7 thrashing to the Texas Tech Freshmen. Glen Bufkin completed 7 out of 11 attempts at passes and climaxed his performance with a 60 yard touchdown producing pass to Cannon in the fourth quarter. Wayne Smith of Vernon scored one touchdown on a pass from Bufkin and accounted for three extra points.

The Pirates were held to only 82 yards from scrimmage while the Peadors piled up 300. The Tech eleven was also outstanding in the first down division, making 15 to 6 for Altus. The Pirates, however, demonstrated a commanding superiority in the air.

CROWELL WILDCATS LOSE TO SEYMOUR PANTHERS

Crowell, Nov. 14.—With both teams doing all their scoring in the first half, the invading Seymour Panthers defeated the Crowell Wildcats 13 to 6 Friday night.

Taking the ball on Crowell's 46 on a punt midway in the first half, the Panthers drove steadily down the field to the 15 from where they scored on a pass. The try for point was good.

The Wildcats took the following kickoff, however, and three plays later had scored a touchdown on the aerial route, with Orr taking the pass from Fitzgerald and running 43 yards for the tally. The try for the point was a failure.

Still in the first half, the Panthers came back strong, finally sending halfback Stephens, who had passed to Richmond for the first score, over from the 11-yard line.

In the last half neither team penetrated the others 20-yard line.

Seymour made 14 first downs and 168 yards from scrimmage to eight first downs and 108 yards from scrimmage for Crowell.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME GAME PACKS YANKEE STADIUM

New York, Nov. 14. (AP)—While hundreds of would be spectators were still outside offering $50 and up for a pair of tickets anywhere in Yankee Stadium, the football eleven of Army and Notre Dame lined up for their annual "big show" today before a crowd of more than 80,000.

Army's upset by Colgate two weeks ago in its only loss of the season, and Notre Dame's 3-0 loss to Navy last Saturday didn't detract from the lure of the 25-year feud. The 77,000 regular seats and 3,000 temporary seats were sold out and spectators found their business red hot.

Although Army had been rated a 6 or 7 to 5 favorite in most pre-game books, the rival outfits went into action at seven money, or 6-5 and take your choice.

NORTH TEXAS AGGIES AND LUMBERJACKS TIE, 7 AND 7

Nacogdoches, Nov. 14. (AP)—The Lumberjacks of Stephen F. Austin College and the North Texas Aggies fought a 7 to 7 deadlock here Friday.

Hickey flipped to Belk for the first three minutes of play and Shaw converted. The Lumberjacks tied the score in the second period when Mills added the extra point after scoring a touchdown on a six-yard plunge.

Although Army had been rated a 6 or 7 to 5 favorite in most pre-game books, the rival outfits went into action at seven money, or 6-5 and take your choice.

McMURRY INDIANS RUN WILD OVER SOUTHERN INVADERS

Abilene, Nov. 14. (AP)—Bob Anthony, McMurry College backfield star, led the Indians to a 55 to 0 rout of Southwestern University in a Texas Conference game Friday night.

Anthony accounted for 222 yards in four touchdown plays. Brookshire, Christian, Garter and Burleson scored the other markers. McMurry added a safety for good measure. It was the largest score ever run up by the Indians.

REPORTED ATTACKS STIR HOUSTON STRIKE INTEREST

Houston, Nov. 13. —The Houston ship channel, scene of a comparatively peaceful strike nearly two weeks, was tense Friday after two sailors reported they were beaten and robbed and a woman said she was kidnapped.

A member of the strike committee asked protection "from two New York gunmen." He claimed they were imported to kill him.

The strikers posted men at the union station and the Southern Pacific station. They said they expected strike-breaking seamen to arrive.

William A. Baker, 26, and James F. Clemmons, 27, seamen on the tanker Cerro Azul, said they were stopped by two men Thursday night as they started to cross a picket line. They reported they were taken to the International Seamen's Union hall, kept there 45 minutes and then taken out on the Baytown highway in an automobile and then beaten and robbed.

Mary Gibson, 23, who had been hauling pickets to and from their posts, claimed she was kidnapped Thursday night. She told homicide officers three men forced her into their automobile and made her drive to the outskirts of the city, while a fourth man followed. She said the men then told her: "If you don't quit hauling these pickets, we'll blow you and your car off the earth," she said they released her after the threat.

THIRD VICTIM OF PISTOL AFFRAY DIES AT CENTER

Center, Nov. 14. (AP)—Constable Ed Chapman, 60, of Stockman, critically wounded in a school house gun battle that took two lives Wednesday midnight, died at a hospital Friday.

Justice of the Peace Alvin Gillespie, 62, and Alcus Lilley, 56, a farm-man school superintendent, where an Armistice Day dance was in progress.

Eye witness J. M. Moore, in a written statement to the District Attorney, said Lilley fired at Chapman when the latter attempted to disarm him. Lilley, Moore said, then wheeled and shot Gillespie, who fell dead.

Chapman drew his pistol and shot Lilley, who died in an ambulance en route to Timpson.

Chapman, two bullets in his right lung, was given a fair chance to recover but suffered a relapse.

Sheriff J. B. Sample, investigating the shooting, said Lilley, father of three children, was under bond in Justice Gillespie's Court on a charge of hog stealing.

ITALIAN MARSHALS GIVE VIEWS ON AFRICAN WAR

Rome, Nov. 14. (AP)—Memoirs of Marshal Emilio De Bono, Italian commander at the start of the Ethiopian war, described Italy Friday as the aggressor in East Africa.

Companion books by De Bono and Marshal Pietro Badoglio, who succeeded him during the culminating stage of the war, were published simultaneously Friday. Both contained prefaces by Premier Mussolini.

De Bono showed that he and Il Duce agreed on the war in the beginning of 1933 and immediately began their preparations.

His book gave the telegram he sent to Mussolini saying Emperor Haile Selassie would not attack and that the war must be begun by the Italians.

It showed that the Italo-Ethiopian war was one of conquest.

Foreign diplomats and correspondents, as well as many Italians, wondered that the De Bono book was permitted to appear with these revelations.

PRESIDENT STUDIES REPORT ON STEEL WAGE FIXING PLAN

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—Commenting on the proposal of some steel companies to fluctuate wages with the cost of living as determined by the Labor Department index, President Roosevelt said Friday the cost of living was a factor to be considered only when applied to a minimum wage.

It should not be considered as a factor, he added, if it is to curb the improvement of wages.

Discussing the question at a press conference, the President said living cost should not be the controlling factor, he added, if it is to curb the where the cost of living is very low.

He added buying power also entered into the picture.

Responding to further questions, the President said he was two-thirds finished with the budget for next fiscal year, that estimates for two more Federal departments had been completed and that he would be pretty well through with the job before he left next week for Southern waters.

A. C. C. UPSETS DANIEL BAKER HILL BILLIES BY 13-7 SCORE

Abilene, Nov. 14. (AP)—Abilene Christian College is out of the Texas Conference cellar as a result of a 13 to 7 upset of the Daniel Baker Hill Billies of Brownwood here Friday. Daniel Baker previously was untied and undefeated in conference competition. Their loss virtually clinched the title for the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets, also of Brownwood.

Jake Miller and Henry Bennett, sophomore backs, sparked the Christian attack, which netted touchdowns in the first and fourth on a 36-yard drive. Howard tallied for the Billies.

The Governor, announcing that procedure, said the emergency clause of the bill was defective and the measure would not be effective for 90 days.

It was the last bill passed by the session remaining on the Governor's desk.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect" (Matthew 5: 48).

The Lesson-Sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is only by Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator" (page 491).

FOREIGN SECURITY BUYING CONTROL UNDER DISCUSSION

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—President Roosevelt said Friday the Federal Reserve Board was studying the question of the possible need of legislation to control foreign buying of American securities.

Responding to questions about the rising stock market at his semi-weekly press conference, the President said foreign investments in the American market if accumulated to a certain point, were a potential danger not only to domestic currency and exchange but to every other nation's currency and exchange.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized the question was only in the study stage and said the treasury would be asked to investigate it also when Secretary Morgenthau returns to Washington next week.

He said Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board had informed him that new legislation would be required if control measures were deemed necessary.

ZIONCHECK ESTATE SUED FOR APARTMENT DAMAGE

Washington, Nov. 14. (AP)—Mrs. Pamela Schuyler Young instituted Friday a new court action to collect damages she contended were the result of the occupancy under lease of her apartment by the late Representative Marion A. Zioncheck of Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Young filed in District Court a $3,179 damage claim against the Estate of Zioncheck.

Counsel for the Representative's widow, the former Ruby Louise Nix, Texarkana, Texas, said he would advise her as administratrix to reject the claim, an action that would enable Mrs. Young to file suit for the account in District Court.

Originally Mrs. Young sued Zioncheck for $99 damages in Municipal Court. The case was dismissed after his death, automatically shifting jurisdiction to District Court where Mrs. Zioncheck was named administratrix.

[QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING]

"How does a Bank handle out-of-town checks?"

WHEN you deposit a check written on a distant bank, your bank ordinarily routes it for prompt collection to a city correspondent bank with which it maintains an account, or to a Federal Reserve Bank. The following steps are usually taken:

1. The account of your bank is credited with the amount of the check at the correspondent bank or Federal Reserve Bank.
2. The check is charged against the account of the bank on which it is written.
3. It is sent to the bank on which it is written, and charged by it against the account of the person or firm which issued it.
4. The amount is then credited to your account as soon as advices are received that the check has been honored.

PLANTS THAT CATCH INSECTS

IN VARIOUS COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD, THERE ARE CURIOUS PLANTS THAT CATCH SMALL FLIES, AND ACTUALLY DIGEST THEM. ON THE LEFT IS SHOWN AN AMERICAN PITCHER PLANT THAT CATCHES AND DROWNS ITS INSECT PREY INSIDE THE WATER-FILLED, TUBE-LIKE LEAVES.

ON THE RIGHT, IS THE VENUS FLY-TRAP. WHEN INSECTS TOUCH THE DELICATE BRISTLES ON THE LEAVES, THE TWO TRAP-LIKE HALVES SNAP SHUT AND HOLD THE VICTIM UNTIL ITS BODY IS DIGESTED.

THE COMMON SUNDEW HAS CLUB-SHAPED HAIRS, OR TENTACLES, EACH SECRETING A STICKY FLUID. INSECTS, ALIGHTING TO DRINK THE LIQUID, ARE PINNED DOWN BY THE HAIRS, WHICH CLAMP DOWN ON THE STRUGGLING BODY.

THE BUTTERWORT PLANT HOLDS A STICKY SUBSTANCE IN ITS LEAVES TO SNARE CARELESS INSECTS.

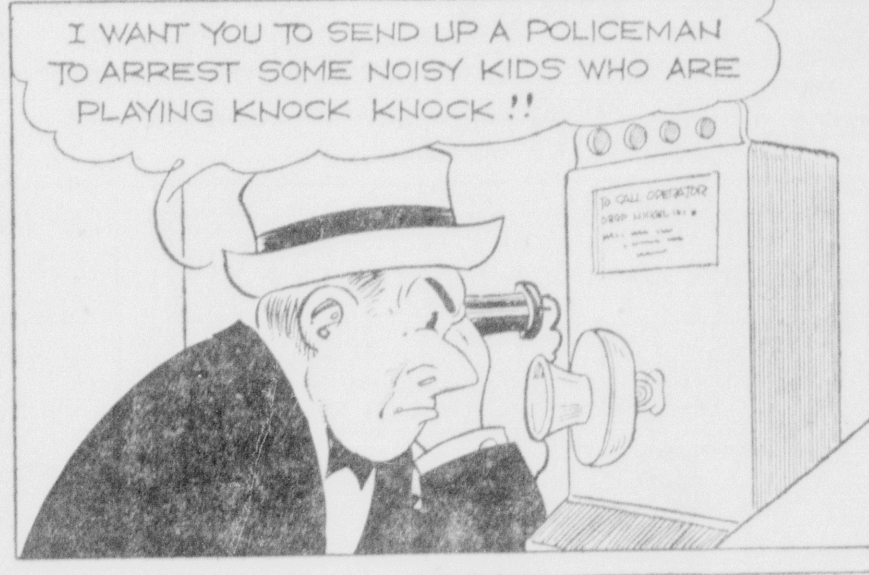

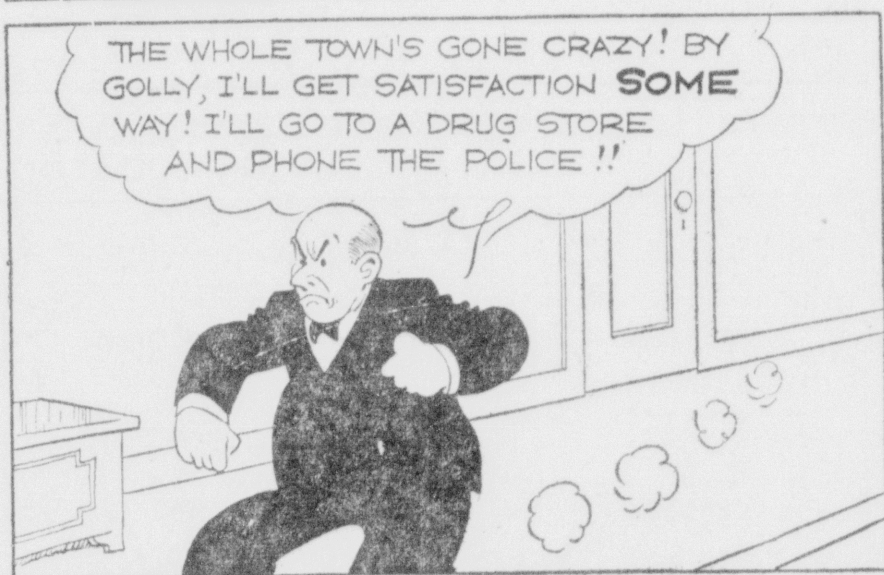

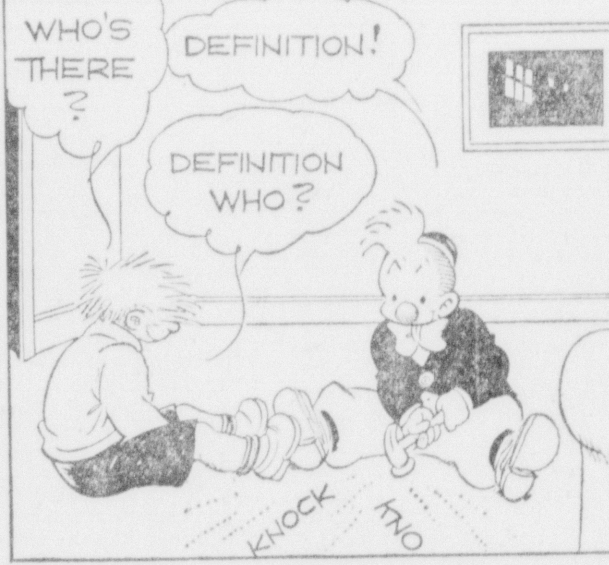

IN CHINA, THERE GROWS A PLANT THAT DEVELOPS A PITCHER, WITH PROTECTING LID AT THE END OF EACH LEAF. INSECTS, LURED INSIDE THE PITCHERS, ARE UNABLE TO SCALE THE SLIPPERY WALLS, AND ARE DEVoured.
